We must stop by preventive means; there are no curative agencies. The general problem of racial betterment is broader than the out we have set ourselves here. The program is far-reaching and looks not only to the reduction of unfit social strains, but also to the increase of those proved and socially valued traits of character in man. This problem of racial betterment is called in modern phrase, eugenics. Our purpose in this discussion has been limited. We have, therefore, discussed the single phase of the general problem, --the elimination of the defective strains. Many answers and Amos W.
