Westview Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 328 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 5.9in. x 0.7in.The secular Republic of Turkey, which has gone further towards Westernization than any other Muslim country, has been caught up in the Islamic revival sweeping the world from Morocco to the Philippines. Three-quarters of a century after Mustafa Kemal Ataturk abolished the trappings of the Islamic state and replaced them with Western institutions, Turkey has become dangerously polarized. Ataturks disciples see his revolution under threat and are engaged in a new crusade against the spread of political Islam. On the other hand, a reinvigorated Islamic movement chafes at official restrictions on Islamic practices and is seeking ways to gain political power. Turkey Today is about the Islamic surge in todays Turkey, the only Muslim country with one foot in Europe and an active member of the Western Alliance. It is about Ataturks legacy, its successes and failures. It is also a personal view of the multi-dimensional nature of Islam in Turkey as a political, moral, spiritual force. The New York Times bureau chief in Ankara before and after the 1980 military coup, Marvine Howe returns to Turkey to give an in-depth account of the Islamic revival in that rigidly secular country. She discusses the questions on many peoples minds: Why has political Islam reemerged in Turkey today How does the observance of Islam in Turkey differ from that of other Muslims in the region Does the Islamic movement pose a threat to the secular state and its relations with the West What are the chances for an Islamic-secular dialogue and accommodationHere is a close-up view of some of the many faces of Islam in Turkey: the fundamentalist who would sacrifice higher education for a headscarf, radical cult leaders who prey on youths, the Islamist author who...
